

-a	command-line option "a"
-b file	options can have arguments and long descriptions
--long	options can be long also
--input=file	long options can also have arguments
--very-long-option	The description can also start on the next line.
-x, -y, -z	The description may contain multiple body elements, regardless of where it starts.
-v, --verbose	Multiple options are an "option group".
-l file, --one=file, --two file	Commonly-seen: short & long options.
/V	Multiple options with arguments.
	DOS/VMS-style options too